

5-3-1: Examining Basic Network Device Commands

At the end of this episode, I will be able to:

1. Identify and explain basic network device commands, given a scenario.

Learner Objective: Identify and explain basic network device commands, given a scenario

Description: In this episode the viewer will examine basic commands use to configure network devices, through a command line interface or CLI.

- Basic Network Device Commands
 - o show version
 - ♣ Displays information about, system hardware, software, config files
 - o show running-config
 - ♣ May require a privileged mode
 - ♣ Displays currently running configuration information
 - o show interface
 - ♣ Display statistics for all configured interfaces
 - o show vlan
 - ♣ Displays information on current VLAN configuration on the switch
 - o show mac-address-table
 - ♣ Displays information about the MAC address table
 - o show ip route
 - ♣ Displays current state of the routing table
 - o show arp
 - ♣ Displays the IP address to MAC address mappings in the ARP table
 - o show logging
 - ♣ Displays the state of logging
 - o show power
 - ♣ Display the current power status of system components